SECURITY

⚠ CRITICAL

ZERO-DAY IN THE WILD

Researchers have published a working exploit for a widely-deployed component overnight. Your engineers are scrambling to assess exposure across every system — and the window before attackers weaponise it is measured in hours, not days.

Every minute unpatched is a minute the door is open. Do you even know your full attack surface?

TEAM DISCUSSION

How quickly can you assess and patch a critical vulnerability you didn't know existed yesterday?